

I am an XM user and do not want services limited. I live in a rural area with very poor reception. With XM I am able to listen to quality music, news and weather/traffic reports. I use XM both in my car and home. When I travel, especially the East coast corridor, I depend on the traffic reports. On regular radio, I can only get rap/hip-hop and all that other music that is loud and obnoxious, plus talk shows with people who only seem to make inappropriate statements and then laugh hysterically about their statements. I enjoy classical, smooth jazz, and oldies. These stations are impossible to get at my home or when traveling. I willingly pay for the services that XM provides. If commercial stations provided what XM does, and if the reception were like XM's, I would listen to them. I am an intelligent person and object to the insulting garbage that is the only stuff that seems to have the best reception! XM provides something for everyone and since we are willing to pay for it doesn't that say something about commercial radio?
